FACTS AND FIGURES ABOUT SCHOOL BONDS TO BE VOTED ON MAY FIFTH

It seems that a little consideration to the details of the coming bond election for the new High School would be in order at this time, the better acquaintance we have with the details of such matters usually lead to better results.

Mr. Parker's article in last week's issue, while covering so many favorable points of the need of the school, was based upon rather conservative figures relative to the increase in attendance. The number of children in school during the first year of the town, 1909-1910, was about 60, therefore with an increase in attendance for 13 years the present enrollment should be 183, whereas, the enrollment at present reaches the number of 436 children. If we are to estimate the probable enrollment for next term, it would be safe to say that the first grade will be equal in numbers to the present class, which is 63; the number of Seniors who will graduate from the High School will not be over five, thus we may expect a direct increase of at least 58 children, and a total enrollment of 494. The number of children of school age in the average population as large as ours, would be, according to figures compiled by insurance companies, 480, which together with the number of children transported from the country, at present [illegible] gives us a total of [illegible]

It has been stated that the number of children being transported is more in proportion than the amount of money paid in taxes in other parts of the district outside the city limits would warrant, or in other words, that St. Cloud is paying for the education of the country children. Such argument does not seem logical and it is doubtful if it can be proven to be near the truth. The total valuation of the district on the county books is $927,370.00. Now if the city has 85 per cent of the children in the school, and that is what the figures show, and the other 15 per cent are being brought in, it would only be just and fair for the city to pay 85 per cent of the payment on the bonds.

Accordingly, if the value of the District is $927,370.00 and the proportion of city children attending the school is 85 per cent, then the outlaying territory outside the city limits and with in the school district should be assessed at 15 per cent of the tatol valuation which would give an actual valuation of over 140 square miles of $140,480.00, considering the development at Kissimmee Park, the developed areas east and west of the city, Deops Addition, Folson Addition and the other settled areas it seems that the valuation should be a trifle more than 15 per cent of the District.

Other points of argument are being offered relative to the terms of the bonds and the payments. In many respects they are similar to the city issue which brought a good premium and has not been considered so objectionable Section 15, as amended by Ch. 6907 of the Laws of Florida states definitely that the County Commissioners are to levy annually a tax "not to exceed five mills in any one year" on property within said district to pay off the bonds. It must be plain that care must be exercised to be prepared for emergencies, and in the event that the taxes are not all collected enough must be insured to make the payments. It is only reasonable to assume that there will be a decided increase in the valuation within the district during the life of the bond issue, but we have no right to assert that this will actually happen. The present valuation will take care of the payments.

As a comparison let us take the last issue of school bonds at Orlando (that much admired progressive city). The issue was for $150,000.00 for a high school and there are two payments on the bonds and the interest, one thirty years after date and the other forty years after date. The cost of the issue will be over $400,000.00. A recent statement published in the newspapers was to the effect that Orange County and Orlando had bonded to the amount of $14,000,000.00 all told. The interest on this sum at the rate of 6 per cent per annum would be more than four times the amount of revenue from taxation for all purposes in Osceola County.

Is it anything but proper to cause those who will receive the most benefit from the school to pay their portion of the costs? This is exactly what will happen with the latter payments. Those attending the school will be the ones who will later pay for the school when they become, in after years, taxpayers.

Although the number of graduates from our high school has been relatively small we ought to feel that they have made somewhat of a mark to the credit of the community. One young woman is in the service of the U. S. Government and is getting a salary about equal to that of the principal of the school and will soon be getting [illegible] of the student [illegible] are numbered in the present faculty of the school, and many others here and elsewhere are occupying desirable positions. Why not give the ones in school now at least a chance?

We do not wish it to be said that St. Cloud does not keep step with progress along with other cities in Florida. The little town of Ocoee has just started to build a $40,000.00 high school building. Eau Gallie is building a $38,000.00 structure this year's enrollment being 215; Melbourne has completed one costing $131,000.00; Kissimmee is about to circulate a petition; others are at Clearwater, DeLand and many other places.

When it comes to standing by the principals of Americanism and equal opportunity the citizens of St. Cloud will not fail to register their votes in conformity to all progressive movements. Let us vote for those who cannot vote for themselves, and in later years they will stand by us if we need them. A majority in favor of good schools will reflect to the credit of the voters and of the community.

Tune-in for "Home Sweet Home," May 8

Just 100 years ago, May 8, John Howard Payne, above, then age 13, wrote the poem, "Home Sweet Home," which later was put to music. To his memory, every radio broadcasting station in the U. S. will have sung the famous song on the evening of May 8. A million listeners will hear the song.

WOMANS IMPROVEMENT CLUB

(By Mrs. Lue S. Hendrix)

The Womens Improvement Club extended hospitality to the Woman's Club of Kissimme, at a reception held in the new Library on Wednesday, April 18th. This being the first social event in the new library the members of the club spared no pains in their efforts to make the reception a success. The building was decorated with ferns, vines, moss and flowers, and was a dream of beauty. The decorations being made under the supervision of Mrs. Ira Turner, who is noted for her exquisite taste, and they called forth many expressions of admiration.

Promptly at 3 o'clock the guests from Kissimmee began to arrive and were received by the president and members of the club. The president, Mrs. Grace Seymour, called the meeting to order and in a few well chosen words welcomed the Kissimmee ladies. She then introduced Mrs. Gertrude Zimmermann, who gave the address of welcome in a very pleasant little speech in which she said that it was a pleasure to meet with the ladies of our sister city in a social way, and if the women of the two cities would unite, as "in unity there is strength," by cooperation we could make Osceola County one of the best counties in the state. This was received with hearty applause.

Mrs. Celeste J. Fripp, president of the Mothers Club of Kissimmee responded in a very pleasant speech expressing the thanks and appreciation of the Mothers Club for the invitation to the first reception given in the new library. She also expressed her admiration for the building and congratulated the club in so successfully carrying out their long talked of and worked for plans.

A ladies quartette, consisting of Mesdames Johnson, Brammar, Niswonger and Kitty Clausson, with Mrs. Ryan as accompanist, sang sweetly a sacred song.

Mrs. Duncan of Kissimmee, in behalf of the Womans Club expressed their appreciation of the pleasures of the afternoon, and admonished the women as they had equal rights with men to make it their duty to study and inform themselves so they could stand shoulder to shoulder with men and do their part in making ours a better and more honored state and nation.

Following this very helpful speech Mrs. Niswonger and Miss Clausson, with Mrs. Brammar as accompanist, sang a duet.

Mrs. Ash gave the principal address of the afternoon on New Zealand. Mrs. Ash lived in that delightful country seventeen years. Her home in Boston, but she went to New Zealand for one year and lengthened it out to seventeen. Her most comprehensive and instructive talk was thoroughly enjoyed by all. She was invited to go to Kissimmee and repeat her story.

The social hour followed the program, dring which the club served refreshments consisting of fruit salad served on roasts, and punch. Mrs. S. W. Porter and Mrs. Leggett, with the assistance of other members of the club served the plates, while Mrs. Severn and Mrs. Hendrix presided at the punch bowl.

It was the opinion of all that this has been one of the most social affairs of the season.

Those present from Kissimmee as they registered were: Mrs. Belle Mobdi, Mrs. Isabel Aoke, Mrs. F. Sigler, Mrs. C. J. Fripp, Mrs. P. L. Stanley, Mrs. B. L. Parker, Alice Parker, Mrs. S. S. Anitman, Mrs. Thompson, Mrs. J. Z. Roberson, Mrs. J. M. Duncan.

The next meeting of the club will be held at the library on Wednesday, May 2, at 2:30.

:: AGRICULTURAL POINTERS ::

I will hold two citrus field meets on May 10th, one near Kissimmee, and the other near St. Cloud. These meetings will be for the purpose of demonstrating to the growers the proper sprays to use, how to properly mix and apply them, and how to know the proper development of insects and diseases, and spray for their control at the proper time. Fertilizer formulas will be taken up, giving the amount of Ammonia, Phosphoric Acid and Potash to use on different soils and at the right time. We have citrus on several types of soil in our county, and this grower to get the best results, must be posted as to the right formula to use, taking in consideration the soil, and season of the year. Pruning, cultivation, varieties, rootstock, and the application of the beneficial fungi will be given due consideration.

The time and place for the citrus meetings will be given in next week's issue of this paper. Please keep in mind, and look for the time and place for these meetings. I know you will gain valuable information on citrus culture. I will have the best posted men of the state on citrus culture to address the meetings. Don't fail to be there.

This dry weather is giving the red spider a good chance to do considerable damage to the citrus trees. Some fruit is the proper size for the rust mite to start work. If you find this condition in your grove, spray now with lime-sulphur solution. One gallon to 50 gallons of water. It pays to spray for bright fruit. Watch the returns from bright fruit over the poorer grades. This will pay the bill for spraying and give a profit also.

Order cowpeas at once to broadcast over the grove and farm lands. Soon as the rains start, you can plant and get a good stand. Every day I see that cowpeas are advancing in price. If your land needs humus and bacteria, you can't put it there any better than growing a cover crop of one of our legumes. Velvet beans, cowpeas and beggarweed rate high in the ammonia gathered from the air and converted to the soil through the roots.

Tile your land this summer. This is the best way in the world to make money quick. Quite a large outlay to begin with, but my the returns you get. See how you have suffered for the want of rain lately, and in a few weeks you will have too much on the land and no way to dispose of it. Properly tiled land is worth $1,000 an acre anywhere in Florida, provided the soil is good trucking soil. We have the best soil to tile here, and there is plenty of water at your disposal by drilling for it. Look ahead and give your land good drainage. Dry now, but you never know what the weather is going to do in Florida.

There is quite an acreage of citrus land in Osceola County lying idle. I wish to lay stress to the land owners of good citrus soil to clear and plant this land as soon as possible. No reason why Osceola County should not be deriving more wealth from citrus than we are at the present time.

If you need my services, write or call for me at the Chamber of Commerce, Kissimmee, or the Tribune Office and Chamber of Commerce, St. Cloud. In St. Cloud every Tuesday. Office day in Kissimmee on Saturday of each week.

BUILDINGS AT ELEVENTH AND NEW YORK TO BE COMPLETED

Settlemet of litigation that involved title to the lots at the northeast corner of Eleventh and New York avenue which has been in court for more than two years and a half, reached a stage the past few days where title could be passed to purchasers who contracted for the property with uncompleted buildings before the litigation started.

A. V. Johnson, vice president of the St. Cloud Tribune Co., has received a deed from R. H. Silsbee to lots 13, 14 and 15 of Block 162, which embraces the property referred to above, and plans are now being made for the completion of the six storerooms this summer, with a second story to the building. Later another substantial building for a new home for the Tribune office will occupy the 35-foot front now vacant, but included as a part of this property.

This announcement will be received with a great deal of interest as this corner has been an eye-sore to everyone who passed this corner since work was stopped before the buildings were completed. The first litigation was between Silsbee and the contractor, and when that was settled and a deal started to pass the property to other owners, a suit was filed against Silsbee by H. D. Thompson for $6,000, on this was disposed of on April 2, when an appeal was not taken on the decision of the circuit court that Silsbee had paid the claim on which suit was entered. A suit for $1,200 was pending wen the sale was made last week, but this will be taken care of out of the purchase money that sum being held until the court determines the case.

Bids will be asked for on these buildings as soon as the architect's plans are complete.

DEPUTY SHERIFF KILLED AT DEER PARK SUNDAY

Harold Kempfer, of Deer Park, age 28, deputy sheriff, was shot Sunday afternoon by a negro named John Flourcoy, and died before reaching a hospital. The negro had shot and killed his wife, Florence Flournoy, at Melbourne and started toward Deer Park. Mr. Kempfer was notified to be on the lookout for the negro. Sunday the negro came on toward Deer Park and the deputy sheriff met him out of Deer Park about a mile. Kempfer got of his car and started toward the negro asking him to stop. The negro began shooting at Mr. Kempfer, striking him three times, once in the hand, in the hip and once in the side. Mrs. Kempfer, who was in the car nearby managed to get her husband into the car and brought him to Deer Park were two men helped her rush him to St. Cloud.

Dr. W. H. Dodds dressed the injuries then Eisenstein Bros. ambulance was called and he was started to the hospital in Orlando. Who they arrived there it was too late as he had died. The body was brought back to St. Cloud and prepared for shipment to Pennsylvania.

After the sheriff was shot and fell to the ground he fired two shots at the negro, and when found Monday morning by Ernest Shivers and Sheriff Farmer and taken to the jail at Kissimmee. He was wounded in three place, once in each leg and in the neck. Dr. Chunn, county physician, says that there is no hopes for his recovery.

The remains of Mr. Kempfer were shipped to Beaver Springs, Pa., for burial, accompanied by his wife and uncle, W. H. Kempfer.

J. C. Morris has returned from a business trip to Chicago, and also from a trip down the East Coast taking in a fishing outing at Key West. He brought home with him from Chicago a thoroughbred police dog, the parents of which were brought from Europe by one of the Chicago Tribune officials. Mr. Morris says he is back to stay, and will be welcomed as one of us by a large number of friends he has made here on previous visits.

Miss Gladys Crawford, field worker of the American Red Cross, is in this city today for conference with the committees of the local chapter and with Mrs. L. H. Adams, local Red Cross nurse. A meeting will be held at eight o'clock this evening at the Chamber of Commerce rooms.

Mrs. Sarah E. Hopkins passed away this morning at her home just east of the city. The funeral will be held Saturday morning at ten o'clock in the Methodist church. Eisenstein Bros., are in charge of the burial arrangements.

Next Congress Will Tackle Passports

PRESIDENT HARDING'S attempt to put an end to the passport vise nuisance and, incidentally, to terminate the adventure in economy by which traveling Americans are spending $8,000,000 a year to enable their government to collect $2,500,000 in vise fees from aliens arriving in this country, failed in the final hours of the Sixty-seventh congress, but will be pressed with determination when the next congress convenes in December.

Since 1921 Americans have not needed passports to leave their own country, which has not greatly altered the situation since they are still required to have them in order to enter nearly all countries. In 1921, also, the American vise requirement was discontinued in the case of all outgoing, but continued for all incoming aliens.

The war had been over nearly two years when congress raised from $2 to $10 the fees for issuing passports to Americans and viseing the passports of aliens. The plan succeeded in bringing in to the treasury during 1921 about $1,300,000 in passport fees paid by Americans to their government for passports, and approximately $6,000,000 paid by aliens. But it kept no Americans at home and it did not check immigration.

Then congress passed the 3 per cent law, the effect of which was to limit to 300,000 the number of the aliens permitted to enter the United States in any one year, and by so doing cut down the revenues from vise fees to about $2,500,000 annually.

Meantime, other governments promptly followed the lead of the United States by charging American citizens the same fees for viseing their passports that the American diplomatic and consular officers abroad, under the act of June, 1920, were obliged to charge for viseing the passports of their nationals. A few countries exceeded the American rate.

The effect, of course, has been that an American abroad is obliged to pay from five to ten times as much for his vises in any European country as an European making the same journey.

Again, since an American traveling abroad visits on a conservative average five countries, he pays $50 in vise fees where an European visiting the United States pays $10 for his American vise, which, plus the cost of passport, brings his expenditure to $11 or $12 as against the initial $10 paid by the American for his passport and $50 to foreign governments for vise fees, a total of $60, which can be, and is, increased by another $10 for each additional country visited.

AMERICAN LEGION

ST. CLOUD POST NO. 40 — MEETS 2ND & 4TH THURSDAYS

Insistent demands of the Minnesota Department of the American Legion that the federal neuro-psychiatric hospital for veterans at St. Cloud, Minn., estimated to cost $1,500,000 be built at once, have borne fruit, according to information from the United States Veterans' Bureau at Washington. It is believed that construction will start without delay.

One of the first contributions which the American Legion is raising to decorate the graves of overseas dead came from Hans Hundorf, a disabled Legion member taking treatment for tuberculosis in a St. Paul hospital. In spite of his disability, Hundorf has enrolled 135 members for his Legion post this year, of whom 108 are fellow patients.

It cost an Indianapolis young man $50 for falsely asserting that he was a member of the American Legion. Judge Delbert Wilmeth, of the city court, a prominent Legion member, assessed the fine when it was proved that the youth had no right to wear a Legion button.

When it was found that there were no funds available for the purchase of gymnasium equipment for the high school at Denton, Mont., the local post of the American Legion decided to contribute from a post motion picture show and dance to the school.

The American Legion has been the most potent influence in this country against the spread of radicalism and bolshevism, according to Dr. John J. Tigert, United States commissioner of education, who recently visited the Legion national headquarters in Indianapolis. Mr. Tigert commended the Legion upon its efforts to foster Americanism in the schools of the country.

Alvin Owsley, national commander of the American Legion will speak at the forty-fifth annual meeting of the American Library Association, at Hot Springs, Ark. April 23 to 28. How to bring books within reach of the 60,000,000 persons in the United States without public libraries is the general problem for consideration at the meeting.

Ninety-three trees, representing the comrades who fell in the World War, were planted by the American Legion members at the recent dedication of a memorial avenue in a park at Lincoln, Neb. General John J. Pershing likened the dedication address and unveiled a bomber upon which were inscribed the names of those men and women who made the supreme sacrifice.

Illinois leads all other states in the American Legion membership for 1923, according to a recent report of Legion national headquarters in Indianapolis. Other leading states are, in relative order, Pennsylvania, Iowa, Ohio, New York, Minnesota, California, Indiana, Wisconsin and Kansas.

Philadelphia members of the American Legion are aroused over the latest addition to the long list of methods of exploiting disabled ex-service men—substituting brass and cast iron teeth for gold ones. Some dentists in Philadelphia, it is charged, have been pocketing the gold and other precious metals sent to them for the work and have substituted brass alloy. It is alleged that bridge work in the mouths of former service men treated in Philadelphia has been found to be composed of cast iron and similar base metals. Agents of the United States Veterans Bureau are investigating the charges.

In honor of the memory of the dead who fell in action with the 86th (Blackhawk) division, Blackhawk post of the American Legion in Chicago has established a scholarship at the University of Chicago to be called the Blackhawk Memorial scholarship. The scholarship covers "tuition and its value is between $225 and $255, depending upon whether the person winning the scholarship chooses to enter the college of arts, literature and science, or the school of commerce and administration. It is open to the high school senior who shall write the best essay on the subject, "Why I Am Proud I Am An American."

The recent passage by Congress of amendments to the Sweet Bill extending the time for service connection of disabilities from tuberculosis and neuro-perchiatric from two to three years, will permit thousands of cases of veterans previously rejected to receive favorable consideration, Joe Sparks, chairman of the American Legion's national rehabilitation committee, has announced. All such claimants are advised by the Legion to request reconsideration by the Veterans Bureau.

Americanism Day Program

"Americanism Day" to be observed April 27 by 11,500 American Legion posts throughout the country will include definite steps for progress along the lines of citizenship, according to plans and programs announced by Garland W. Powell, national director of the Americanism Commission of the Legion.

On this day the churches, committees, civic gatherings will assail the influence of "red" propagandists in meetings destined to use the citizenry against the furtherance of the work of revolutionists who seek the overthrow of the existing government.

The day has been chosen by the Legion, believed by many to be the greatest force for propagation of the ideals of the United States, to offset the celebration of "May Day," taken by the "reds" as their annual "field day" for the dissemination of principles undermining and destructive of government. The general outline of the celebration to be held by the Legion and which is receiving the cooperation of civic, patriotic, religious and fraternal organizations, will be to counteract in advance the effect of the "May Day" meetings of the communists, to expose the fallacy of their proposals to show the benefits of the principals of government of the United States.

The program outlined by Mr. Powell contains suggestions for the betterment of the community along the lines of Americanism. Community singing of national airs, devout moments of prayer for the success of the nation, receptions for newly naturalized residents to show the community's interest in their accession to citizenship, and efforts to establish respect for law and order, are among the details of the suggested program.

Sees Success Endowment Fund

Realization of the endowment fund sought by the American Legion to provide for the permanent annual decoration of all graves of American World War dead on foreign soil is nearer.

Announcement by the national treasurer of the Legion that the daily receipts for this fund are mounting is taken as an indication that the attainment of the goal set will be reached by May 30. Each mail that comes to Legion headquarters bears the contributions of former soldiers, nurses, Legion posts, civic and fraternal organizations, and of those who hold dear the cause for which the men now sleeping on foreign soil gave their lives.

Hollywood Post of the American Legion, composed of film actors and studio employees contributed a check for $165.00. The organization of the "Forty Men and Eight Horses" of Rochester, N. Y., which won a prize at the annual "Mardi Gras" of Legion Posts in Rochester, sent the reward to the endowment fund for overseas graves immediately. In Keene, N. H. where the Legion post is named after a soldier who lies buried overseas, members of the Rotary Club sent a large check with the specific charge that it should be applied for the decoration of the grave of the hero whose name is honored by the Legionnaires of that city.

Many of the letters inclosing donations to the fund reveal strong personal sentiment. One who signs herself "A double Gold Star mother" sent a donation expressing best wishes for the success of the fund. Another letter read: "The inclosed check is from an inmate of the state penitentiary who wishes to do his part. Please acknowledge this" (From the warden of the institution). A former "padre" as he described himself in his letter, said: "Here's my iron man for the graves endowment fund. Good luck to a good cause."

Announcement of the cooperation of many of the larger newspapers in the country has been received at Legion headquarters. These newspapers, working through the Legion posts of their cities expect to aid the fund by appeals to their readers.

EPWORTH LEAGUE SERVICE AT METHODIST CHURCH

Topic for April 29: "Leadership for Service." Ex. 3:7-12. 4: 10-17. Leader, Miss Nina City.

A very interesting social was held by the league in the Annex on Wednesday night of last week. Charades of the Bible scenes and other games were played and refreshments were served.

Leadership ranks high in the service of Christ. The highest purpose of the Epworth League should be to prepare its members to become leaders in every department of life.

When God calls us for service we should be willing to go. If we have natural weaknesses, he will strengthen them. Moses lost the greatest glory of his work as a leader of the children of Israel by making his inability to talk fluently an excuse for not doing what God wanted him to do.

Aaron, his brother, was made his spokesman. God told Moses what to say and Moses told Aaron and Aaron told Pharaoh and the people. God knew that Aaron was not afraid to talk. Yes, Aaron was a good talker, but he did not know what to talk about, so Moses had to tell him.

God was angry at Moses for the spirit in which he accepted the call of God. "O, my Lord, send, I pray thee, by the hand of him whom thou wilt send." Not a very agreeable spirit in which to accept a call to service.

How different was the answer given by a young man several hundred years later when God said, "Whom shall I send, and who will go for us?" The young man answered, "Here am I, send me." God accepted his offer and Isaiah became one of the greatest prophets of the Old Testament history.

Moses' education and training in Egypt had fitted him for leadership. All he lacked was the willingness to go. God wants intelligent, educated people to do his work in the world. If the churches fail to furnish them, he will look elsewhere.

Since Christianity is for this life as well as for the life to come, God wants Christian farmers and bankers and merchants, and city, county, state and national officials to do his work as leaders in life. He wants the body and mind as well as the soul.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

(Marcellus (Mich.) News)
St. Cloud, Fla., April 12, 1923.

The Marcellus News,
Marcellus, Mich.

Dear Mr. Lane:—

As I have enjoyed reading The News during my stay in Florida, perhaps you may be interested in receiving a letter from me, here.

This is my first visit to Florida and all quite wonderful to me. I arrived here at St. Cloud, December 14th. Coming, from Michigan in the midst of snow and ice and arriving here two days later in the land of sunshine ad green trees was at the very first quite like paradise.

After becoming familiar with some of the fruits and flowers of this little "wonder city" as it is called, ad also meeting people from almost every state, it became my privilege to join a touring party going to the Tampa fair. We started the first day of February in an automobile with five in our party. Our route took us thru the interesting cities of Kissimmee, Haines City, Winter Haven, Lakeland, Plant City and then to Tampa. Two days of our trip were spent on the Gulf Coast going south from Tampa through the towns of Palmetto, Bradentown, Manatee, then to Sarasota. Along this route we saw many orange and grapefruit groves and celery fields. Forests of live oak, cypress and pine were common. The beautiful palm trees were every where. Sulphur springs were plentiful and always recommended as beneficial health drinks. We had many good views of the Gulf of Mexico, yet much of the way it is closed in with hays. We camped every night after the first on the beach which was made beautiful by the moonlight.

We spent one day in St. Petersburg, then returned to the Tampa fair where we saw the famous annual Gasparilla parade. The processions through the city was one of dashing heavey beauty for the king captured not only the chief men of the city, but the fairest women as well, placing them in chariots of blossoms, displaying all the beautiful flowers that Florida produces, such as peppies, morning glories, bogainvelle, bignonia and roses.

After six days we returned to St. Cloud, which is already famous as a veterans home and at their association meetings they say: "Hip horay, hip horay St. Cloud is here to stay, bigger and better every day, wonderous city of U. S. A." This town is about fifty miles from the East Coast and nearly two hundred miles south of Jacksonville. It is on a beautiful lake, lake nearly round, six miles long and six wide. It has been pronounced by one of the members of the State Board of Health, after investigation, to be the healthiest place in Florida. Oranges, grapefruit, tangerines, limes and lemons are successfully grown here. Strawberries are a specialty in the St. Cloud section and the ripe from Thanksgiving to May. A festival of strawberries and cream was recently given the tourists by the chamber of commerce.

There are five good orthodox churches here, and all well attended.

On February 20th, I started with another touring party on a trip along the Atlantic coast, this was even more scenic than the west coast. We encountered some bad roads between St. Cloud and Melbourne but otherwise no more on the coast. We saw many more varieties of palms than before besides the common there were the date, royal, and cocoanut palms. We picked up all the cocoanuts we could carry.

Palm Beach is especially beautiful and a place where much of the money from the states is spent, yet as kind to the people there as in every other place in Florida, very friendly with the easy gractots ways that this sunshine land seems to encourage.

We spent three days in Miami. By the courtesy of a real estate company we were entertained one whole day in a delightful little town, being built on the ocean front, called "Hollywood by the Sea." In this was included a thirty-five mile sight-seeing trip.

One half day we spent visiting the Deering estate which is being developed into a garden of flowers and natural beauty.

I must not forget to mention seeing the Ho. W. J. Bryan's home in Miami; also we were in his Sunday School class on February 25th at Royal Palm Park, where he teaches every Sunday in a pretty little pavilion among the palms.

On our return trip, about forty miles above Miami, we turned in toward the coast at Boca raton and here for over thirty miles we drove on what is called the "ocean boulevard" to Palm Beach. This was one of the finest drives I have ever taken, and picturesque beyond description. Walking on the beach I know what it is to be greeted by a too friendly ocean wave and come away with shoes filled with salt water and sand.

We returned from this trip after ten days, rather tired but favorably impressed with Florida. We lived on fish and fruit most of the way, were undisturbed by mosquitoes or bugs of any kind and found the climate perfect for out-door camping.

My surroundings here at St. Cloud have been very congenial, making my stay so pleasant that I am not unwilling to remain until the Michigan weather decides to settle down into something like summer. However I still love Michigan and the home folks and am expecting to return home before very long.

Yours sincerely,
BERTHA HARIS

TO THE PUBLIC

During the recent fire at the Christian Church a number of automobiles were driven over the water hose while it was in use for the fire department. This is unnecessary and must be prohibited. The life of members of the fire department is at stake as well as the property of those located in the neighborhood of the fire. Action of this kind might put the entire fire department out of business. Those driving cars at such a time will please take notice and refrain from driving over or in any manner interfering with any of the property of the fire department.

INTERFERENCE OF RECEIVING SETS

Each, When Tuning for Distant Station, Acts as a Continuous Wave Transmitter.

We have explained that the continuous, fairly steady whistles, usually heard while tuning for the distant stations, was due to a combination of the carrier waves of two stations which were very nearly on the same wave length. There is another series of whistles always present which very much resemble the whine of a mosquito both in tone and amount of annoyance produced. These are caused by the receiving sets of other listeners. Every receiver using a vacuum tube detector with a regenerative circuit is a potential transmitter. In fact it contains all the essentials of a radiophone transmitter on a small scale.

The detector tube when oscillating produces oscillation exactly similar to the carrier wave of the radiophone stations. The frequency or wave length of this wave can be varied by changing the tuning of the receiving tuner.

The usual procedure in tuning for a distant phone station is as follows: Put the detector tube in an oscillating condition after the tuner has been adjusted near the point where experience has taught us to look for the broadcasting stations, then move the dial slowly across the approximate point where the stations are usually heard. The carrier waves are located by a whistle which starts at the upper limit of audibility and goes down the scale until it becomes so low that it is no longer a note. At this point the set is in exact resonance, and if the tickler, coupling, or plate tuning inductance is decreased until the detector tube stops oscillating, the very best adjustment is obtained for reception of that particular station.

Unfortunately while this listener is going through this operation his receiving set is acting as a continuous wave transmitter, and is producing some inharmonious wails in the phones of his neighbors who happen to be already on the wave of the same station. The continuous wave sent out by the receiver combines with the carrier wave of the transmitting station, producing an audible note. If the operator could tune his set as simply as was described above there would be very little interference, but he usually whistles back and forth across the wave of the transmitting station several times. Often several listeners who have been getting the concert perfectly will get restless between selections and get their tubes to oscillating and whistle up and down a few times.

All listeners should be very careful to keep their detectors in a non-oscillating condition as much as possible to reduce this annoyance of interference between receivers.

Opinions seem to vary considerably in regard to the comparative amounts of energy inducted into the antenna by the "single circuit" or conductively coupled, and the "three circuit" or inductively coupled receiving set.

Previous to the introduction of the single circuit very little trouble had been experienced with beat notes from receiving stations. This was no doubt due to the fact that receiving sets were rather few and far between; also up until a few years ago there was a very small percentage of c. w. telegraph and phone stations so that there was no reason why an amateur should keep his tube in oscillation condition. On the contrary, he was very careful to keep it just below the oscillating point, that being the most sensitive adjustment for spark signals.

With the telephone and c. w. telegraph transmitting stations, i. e., tube transmitters, came the single circuit tuner with its extreme simplicity of adjustment, which was so well adapted to the very sharp tuning of the new transmitters. And with the advent of these new transmitters came the necessity for making the detector tube oscillate in order to locate a station on the scale of a receiving tuner. Naturally then the interference between receiving sets became noticeable at about the time that the single circuit sets became numerous, and this helped to prejudice the minds of the radio public against this type of receiver. However, the fact that the single circuit arrived at about the same time with the inteference was by no means the only reason for believing this tuner to be the main cause of the trouble.

For instance in constructing a single circuit or conductively coupled tuner the difficulty is in obtaining regeneration at all points on the scale. This seems to show that there is more resistance in this circuit than in the inductively coupled type. The main point of difference is the close coupling to the antenna. Being conductively coupled, the coupling to the antenna circuit is at maximum at all times. This causes the radiation resistance to be high, which seems to be the factor that keeps the tube from oscillating freely without unusually close coupling between plate and grid circuits. Thus we are led to believe that this circuit is one to avoid if interference with other listeners is to be reduced.

If we must have single circuit tuners the thing to do to reduce the radiation to a minimum is to reduce the size of the antenna series condenser and increase the number of turns in the inductance. This will give sharper tuning and there will be much less trouble in getting the tube to regenerate.

In many localities there is a great deal of interference from spark stations; especially in the cities on the coast or Great Lakes, where there are commercial stations to handle the ship traffic. These spark stations do not tune very sharply, and even if the station is located several miles away it is often impossible to tune them out with the average tuner.

When tuning for a faint station and using amplification there is nothing more nerve-wracking than to have a spark station roar in unexpectedly. There is little that can be done about this interference. If the station is close a change of wave length would do little good even if this were possible. If it is a commercial station it is doing a much more important work than our broadcasters are, and of course cannot be expected to stand by for them.

FIRST RADIOPHONE EXCHANGE

Opened at Croydon, England, to Make Connection With Pilots of Air Expresses.

What is said to be the first radiophone exchange in the world was recently opened at Croydon, England, the point from which the air liners to the European continent take their departure, according to Consul Linnell.

The chief use made of this exchange is to connect the aerial traffic controller, who has his headquarters in a control tower at Charing Cross, London, with the pilots of the air expresses flying between Croydon and the continent.

The wireless exchange can also connect the phones of the airships and airplanes while in flight with any office at the aerodrome at Croydon, making direct telephone conversation possible.

The pilot of each aerial transport is now required to report his position to the traffic controller every 15 minutes, so that the progress and position of each plane is known throughout its journey. The controller is of particular value in directing the course of the aircraft in cases of fog and in giving them special directions for landing.

Radio in the Prison.

"Trusties" and officials at the Ohio state prison farm at London, Ohio, are now able to keep in touch with the outside world through the installation of a radio receiving set, purchased from the entertainment funds of the institution. The set, which has just been installed, will be enlarged within a few months by the addition of a transmitting set, through the use of which prison authorities hope to be able to bring about recapture of escaped convicts more quickly. The news of escape will be broadcasted immediately.

Court Adjourns by Radio.

From his steamer, incoming from Europe, Justice Tompkins of the Supreme court of Rockland county, New Jersey, radioed to his secretary in Nyack the necessary formal notice for the adjournment of his court, which was scheduled to convene on the morning of his arrival. The justice realized that he would not have sufficient time to reach Nyack after the ship docked, and for the first time in history used the radio to arrange for adjournment.

Popular Demand for Bulletins.

An interesting fact concerning the circulars issued and distributed by the bureau of standards was disclosed when it was announced that 20,643 copies of No. 120, which tells how to make a simple receiving set, had been sent out from the Washington office. They are sold at cost and may be obtained by sending 5 cents to the Superintendent of Documents, Washington.

The Hot-Wire Ammeter.

A hot-wire ammeter is used to measure the current in the antenna system of a transmitter. The value of the current flowing in this system is usually indicative of the performance of the apparatus. This meter is employed in tuning a transmitter to resonance, so that the maximum value of current may be induced into the antenna circuit.

Special radio time signals sent from NSS, Annapolis, for the benefit of scientists in the Indian ocean, working on a test of the Einstein theory of relativity during the recent solar eclipse, were nearly twice as audible as those from a commercial station, the navy has been advised.

Helps Americanization.

An American Legion station in Nebraska broadcasts lectures on American traditions and American institutions so that foreign-born residents within range of the plant may make more rapid progress in Americanization.

Japanese Radio Enterprise.

Powerful financial interests of Japan headed by Viscount Shibusawa are endeavoring to obtain government support in the formation of a 200,000,000 yen radio corporation, which in the United States would be worth about $100,000,000.
